Dear Mr. Ashcroft:

I have been following the Microsoft litigation for some time now. And now I see some states want to continue this litigation. How long does the public have to put up with this?

A company like Microsoft, that has done so much for this country, has been punished enough. They have agreed to many concessions and have gone out of their way to correct what others have accused them of doing.

Please do everything you can to bring this matter to a close and allow Microsoft to get back to what they do best and that is to help keep this country in the forefront of technology. They are very good at that.

Sincerely,

Dan Dougherty, Ret SgtMaj USMC
